

The Asian Cardiovascular Symposium (ACS) is a half-day pre-meeting symposium at the annual AHA-BCVS conference. The ACS aims to promote the AHA mission to facilitate outreach concerning the Asian cardiovascular science communities. It provides an opportunity for communication and collaboration among scientists and clinicians between American and Asian countries to extend the impact of BCVS internationally. The ACS will be hosted by four organizations, the Academy of Cardiovascular Research Excellence (ACRE), the Japanese Cardiovascular Research Association (JCRA), The Korean Cardiovascular Society (KCS), and the Society for South Asian Heart Association (SAHR).

Registration for ACS is separate from the BCVS 2021 conference registration.
